"Conference on the Future of Europe" will be explained to the young generation, and at the same time we want to motivate them to take a more active part in the development of self-government.

As European citizenship is an important element in consolidating and securing the process of European integration, the European Commission continues to support the involvement of European citizens in all aspects of the life of their communities, enabling them to take part in building an increasingly interconnected Europe.

Also on the second day, the rapprochement of nations through the cultures of events and getting to know nations in an informal, friendly way will be given space. By presenting intercultural dialogue, the event will help prevent conflicts and marginalize citizens on the basis of cultural identity. By focusing on intercultural dialogue, we seek to create connections and common ground between the cultures, communities and people involved, by promoting understanding and interaction. The presentation of intercultural dialogue is a challenge for all Europeans to discover the benefits of our rich cultural heritage and to learn from different cultural traditions.
